CCCS STANDARD COMPETENCIES:

This project-based business course develops student understanding and skills in such areas as business law, economics, financial analysis, human resources management, information management, marketing, operations, and strategic management. Through the use of three projects, students acquire an understanding and appreciation of the business world. Students develop a business analysis report, conduct an environment scan of the local business community, and investigate business activities. Current technology will be used to acquire information and to complete the projects. Throughout the course, students are presented problem-solving situations for which they must apply academic and critical-thinking skills. Formal reflection is an on-going component of the course.

In addition to learning about the business world, students also will take their first step toward becoming a part of their local business community. During the last week of the semester, students, working in groups, will generate three ideas for a nonprofit organization that they could open during their senior year. Student should use their newfound knowledge of the local business environment and community to guide their brainstorming and discussion of possible ventures. Each group should present its ideas to the class for review and selection. The top three ideas should be recorded and saved for use in subsequent High School of Business™ courses, during which the students will select one of these business ideas to develop and establish.

When you complete this course, you should be able to:

- Acquire foundational knowledge of business laws and regulations to understand their nature and scope
